We let the results speak for themselves...

"I was keen to pay back some of the knowledge and experience that I have acquired over the past 30 years. Although my career path was very different than the one chosen by my mentee, we have shared enthusiasm which has made working together most rewarding and given me a new prospective."

Sally Tomlinson, Barclays
Mentor, Disability & Dyslexia Undergraduate Scheme (DDUS)

"Mentoring is a challenging but ultimately rewarding commitment for both parties. For the mentor it is often about influencing the mentee to recognise that "they don't know how much they actually know". It is about bringing out the positives in the mentee's experience and using them to gradually build a strong, confident platform to move forward. "

Ian Evans, Barclays Corporate
Mentor, Ethnic Minority Undergraduate Scheme (EMUS)
